CPYRGHT McCarthy on CIA

To the Editor: Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy's thoughts on the CIA (Central Intelligence Agency) contained in the Saturday Evening Post of Jan. 4 and Jan. 11 are worthy of careful consideration of all Americans.

McCarthy suggests that there should be established a "watchdog committee" to keep the CIA within bounds and to prevent it from acting as a "super state department." He cites the Bay of Pigs fiasco and the U2 incident during President Eisenhower's Paris conference as examples of CIA's bungling.

This type of sharp analysis and action by Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy is what we in Minnesota have come to expect of him.
